

About Framingham State College

Framingham State College, founded by Horace Mann in 1839, is an empowering academic community with accomplished, full-time faculty who focus on teaching. Located in Framingham, Massachusetts, 20 miles west of Boston, the college assists in fulfilling the workforce needs of the Commonwealth by connecting students to cultural, recreational, educational, and career opportunities in the greater Boston area.

The college integrates liberal arts and science programs with a variety of professional programs at the baccalaureate and master's levels. With 25 undergraduate majors and 24 graduate programs, we pride ourselves on providing university learning in a college environment. FSC's total enrollment is approximately 6,000 students.
