

CELTSS October 2009

Who: Faculty and Staff
What: Join us for CELTSS Brown Bag Events
When: Selected Wednesdays 11:45-1:15
Where: CELTSS Center

October 7:

CELTSS Faculty Funded Presenters– Come share a brown bag lunch and engage in discussion with your colleagues about their activities.

Joe D'Andrea spent five weeks in a French immersion program at Universite Sainte Anne, in Church Point, Nova Scotia.

Bill Buckreis' funding was used to present a workshop that focused on the role of play in teaching mathematics at the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Conference in Reno, NC.

Bernard Horn presented a paper, "Behind Every Boundary another Boundary Is Hiding: A. B. Yehoshua's The Liberated Bride" at the panel sponsored by the Hebrew Literature Discussion Group at the 2008 Modern Language Association Convention in San Francisco.

Kelly Kolodny utilized CELTSS funding to present her research on educational biography at the International Society for Educational Biography in San Antonio, Texas in April 2009. The title of her talk was "Multiple Biographies Stemming from Specific Institutional Contexts: A Means to Understanding Complex Individual Lives and Social Networks in Connection with Social, Political and Economic Factors that Shape Time Periods and Milieu."

October 21:

First and Second Year Faculty: Getting the Most out of your Classroom Observation Experience

This workshop is offered specifically for first and second year faculty members. During your first and second year of employment your chair and/or a peer evaluation committee will be visiting your classroom to complete an observation of your teaching. This workshop is designed to help that experience become a learning one for you and those that observe you. Chairs and other faculty will be available to provide suggestions and answer your questions. All first year and second year faculty are urged to attend.

October 28:

Meet and Greet the Grants Officer:

Interested in obtaining grants for your research, teaching, or other scholarly endeavors? This lunch session is a perfect opportunity to meet our new grants officer. Come discover the opportunities that await us in the grants world.