

Cheryl Caskie Chase is a Teacher-Librarian in Massachusetts and an alumnus of Framingham State and Simmons College. She has been teaching for 10 years, exposing her students to new technology tools which support and enhance their learning experience and information literacy skills. She is excited about the social software available to educators, some which are free, and how these tools can be integrated into the classroom.