“Public Education is the cornerstone of our community and our democracy.”

-Horace Mann
Executive Summary

Framingham State University (FSU) seeks nominations of, and applications from, exceptional leaders for consideration as candidates for president.

Founded in 1839 by education reformer Horace Mann, FSU is the nation’s oldest public university founded for the education of teachers and has been providing students with access to an excellent and affordable education for more than 180 years. The University’s founding was a visionary act from which FSU has steadily evolved and grown.

Today, Framingham State is a comprehensive institution with more than 4,800 undergraduate and graduate students and 62 degree programs in the arts, humanities, sciences, social sciences, and professional fields.

The University is located just 20 miles outside of Boston on a picturesque New England campus in the middle of the vibrant MetroWest economic corridor.

FSU’s primary focus is on student success, preparing students to excel personally and professionally in an increasingly complex and competitive global economy.

Framingham State provides an open and supportive learning environment small enough to be personal and collaborative, yet large and diverse enough to broaden students’ understanding of the world in which we live.

Given the economic, public health, and societal challenges facing higher education, the University seeks a president to provide vision and leadership for Framingham’s future while fortifying a compelling and distinctive identity for FSU.

The President will provide strong institutional stewardship, generate new resources, and implement a sophisticated enrollment management strategy.

FSU’s next president will champion faculty excellence and staff success, further strengthen a commitment to a student-centered experience, and enhance the University’s role as an anchor in the community.

Framingham State seeks in its president a compassionate and collaborative leader, an experienced administrator, and a vocal champion for educational access who is tirelessly committed to anti-racism and institutional equity, diversity, and inclusion.

The next president will bring and inspire bold, innovative ideas to help Framingham State address society’s most pressing challenges and to position FSU as an influential voice in the Commonwealth and a leading public university in the nation.

To confidentially submit a nomination or express interest in the opportunity, please see “Procedure for Candidacy” on page 15.

Opportunities and Expectations for Leadership

Framingham State University prides itself on delivering a transformational educational experience. FSU’s commitment to students and their families transcends student-centeredness. Faculty and staff are student-connected, meeting students where they are and helping them get where they want to go. The University seeks a president with whom the notion of Framily resonates naturally and strongly, one genuinely interested in the student experience, invested in student success and able to inspire faculty and staff to strengthen Framingham State as a student-connected community.

Rated among the top 20 institutions for return on investment, the campus serves a rapidly growing population of first-generation students. Nearly 90% of full-time first-year students receive financial aid. More than one-third of students represent diverse ethnic backgrounds, and the University is an emerging Hispanic-Serving Institution.

Against a backdrop of declining college enrollments across the northeastern U.S., Framingham State enrolls a student population that increasingly reflects a steadily growing national demographic. Framingham seeks a president who will champion the University’s mission as it begins the next chapter of its history, meeting the needs of a unique and diverse student community while ensuring FSU’s long-term sustainability and success.

Guided by a commitment to Framingham’s core values, the next president will be expected to:

Provide visionary leadership for Framingham State University’s future
With the University’s current strategic plan drawing to a close in 2022, the onset of an institutional reaccreditation process, and collective bargaining agreements currently under review, Framingham State requires a strategic and inspirational leader to shepherd the University’s ongoing recovery from COVID-19 and to ensure it survives and thrives well beyond the pandemic. The President must be an energetic ambassador and advocate who understands FSU’s role and responsibility as an anchor institution in Framingham, the greater MetroWest community, and Massachusetts public higher education.

Fortify a compelling and distinctive identity for FSU
The President will build on Framingham State’s ethos as a student-connected, liberal arts and sciences institution and engine of social mobility to meet the evolving needs of undergraduates, graduate students, and working professionals, making FSU the institution of choice for lifelong learners across New England and beyond. This includes championing the role and value of the arts, humanities, and sciences while fostering an authentic culture of inclusion that unites all FSU learners, enhances academic excellence, and builds community.
Advocate actively and tirelessly against racism
FSU has enhanced inclusive excellence on campus and taken a strong anti-racism stance. The next president will be expected to continue advancing FSU’s commitment to anti-racism through action and investment. The President will model an authentic commitment to enhancing diversity, equity, and inclusion, infusing those values throughout academic programs, student life, and university operations.

Generate resources and provide strong institutional stewardship
A tireless advocate for public higher education and Framingham State, the President will champion access and affordability while inspiring an institutional commitment to excellence. The next president must develop a long-term plan for institutional sustainability that includes strategic management of existing resources and aggressive pursuit of new sources of revenue. The president will be expected to cultivate private philanthropy, continue to strengthen an institutional commitment to fundraising, and explore innovative public and private partnerships.

Develop and deploy a sophisticated enrollment management strategy
Working in collaboration with campus stakeholders and higher education partners across Massachusetts, the President is expected to develop and implement a long-term strategic approach to student enrollment and retention practices that reflects demographic trends and other external pressures, such as the needs of an increasingly diverse population of first-generation students and the ongoing impact of COVID-19. At the same time, the strategy must be aligned with FSU’s commitment to excellence, to public liberal arts education, and to its core values, including a commitment to anti-racism.

Champion faculty excellence and staff success
Framingham State can only be as successful as its faculty and staff. The University seeks a president who values and will advocate for FSU’s most precious resources, one committed to professional development, retention, and a genuine culture of equity and inclusion. They will look to the next president to invest appropriately in the recruitment of professorial and adjunct faculty, thoughtfully balancing the two, and to ensure staffing adequate to achieve FSU’s goals.

Further strengthen FSU’s commitment to a student-centered experience
The next president will enhance an institutional investment in developing robust educational experiences and providing exceptional services and support to ensure the well-being and success of all FSU students. The President will inspire a renewed commitment to the student experience, identifying opportunities to strengthen infrastructure and enhance administrative operations with a student-focused orientation.

Steward FSU’s role as an anchor in the community
MetroWest-area businesses and organizations value Framingham State as a convener and contributor to the region’s economy, cultural life, and social fabric. FSU alumni are accustomed to and value a president who is present and genuinely and actively engaged. The University seeks a president who understands and supports Framingham State’s integral role in the community and beyond.
Professional Qualifications and Personal Qualities

Framingham State University seeks in its president a visionary leader, experienced administrator, and vocal champion for educational access to position FSU as a leading public university and influential voice in the Commonwealth.

The President stewards FSU’s pursuit of its greatest aspirations, modeling an inclusive environment that welcomes and leverages diversity in all of its forms.

The President should be an articulate advocate for the arts, humanities, and sciences and their roles in higher education and value to society. The ideal candidate will be deeply student-centered, drawing inspiration from the promise of a Framingham State education and the transformative experience FSU offers its students.

Minimum Qualifications

Education: An earned doctorate (including, but not limited to, a PhD, JD, or EdD), coupled with substantial experience relevant to FSU’s mission and needs. In exceptional circumstances, an earned master’s degree, coupled with substantial experience relevant to FSU’s mission and needs, may satisfy minimum educational requirements.

Experience: Substantial experience in a senior management position in higher education, or outside higher education where such experience is deemed relevant to, and provides a basis for judging, the candidate’s capacity to serve as a college or university president.

In addition, the President is expected to possess and display the following attributes:

- Compassion, empathy, emotional intelligence and kindness
- Demonstrable commitment and leadership in anti-racism, diversity, equity and inclusion
- Commitment to student-centered education and investment in student life
- Evidence of success leading change, executing plans, and sound decision-making
- Understanding of and respect for shared governance
- Highly effective communication and listening skills with a commitment to transparency
- Collaborative leadership that invites diverse perspectives and a healthy exchange of ideas
- Experience, comfort and facility working in a unionized environment
- Authentic, enthusiastic engagement in student activities and campus life
- Passion for the meaningful impact of institutional engagement in and service to the community
- Sophisticated financial and budgetary acumen
- Experience or demonstrable potential for success leading effective fundraising efforts
Framingham State University is a vibrant, energized community, located on a beautiful New England campus. Constituents are confident in their leadership and speak of a shared sense of purpose across faculty, staff, administration, and the trustees, which is reflected in the University’s longstanding motto: Live to the truth.

The University prides itself on being an inclusive, close-knit community, with students, faculty and staff who look out for one another. Framingham State’s faculty are renowned scholars in their fields of expertise who are dedicated to student success. The diverse student body is made up of hardworking students, many of whom are the first in their family to attend college. Framingham State is home to a dedicated staff and enjoys strong alumni engagement.

Framingham State’s commitment to inclusive excellence and anti-racism touches every aspect of the University’s operations. In August 2021, FSU held a multi-day Racial Equity Policy Review Institute for up to 150 leaders within the campus community to gain a better understanding of systemic racism in higher education and how it manifests on campus.

Framingham State will soon begin the work of preparing its next strategic plan, which will cover the period of 2023–2028. As with past plans, this will be a comprehensive and campus-wide process that will take into account all of the University’s functional area plans, including finance and budgeting, enrollment, technology, capital programming and environmental sustainability.

Over the past decade, enrollment growth in the STEM fields has placed FSU in a leadership position within the Commonwealth, responding to the needs of the state and contributing substantively to the economic growth of the region and the state.

Efforts to reach more non-traditional and first-generation students have significantly diversified the student population. This has not been enough, however, to offset a drop in overall enrollment, which has coincided with a decline in Massachusetts’ high school population and has been exacerbated by COVID-19.

Despite these challenges, Framingham State remains in a strong financial position. Healthy funding reserves and endowment growth that has outpaced competitors have enabled the University to maintain level tuition and fees for the upcoming academic year.

At the state level, Massachusetts is in a strong financial position. Tax revenue has exceeded expectations, which has translated to strong support for public higher education.
Mission

Framingham State University prepares students for productive lives, enhanced by learning and leadership that will contribute to the culturally diverse world of the 21st century. Established by Horace Mann in 1839 as America’s first public teacher preparation school, Framingham State University today offers undergraduate and graduate programs encompassing the arts and sciences and professional studies.

Committed to excellence, the Framingham State University learning community comprises teacher-scholars, librarians, students, and staff who promote free inquiry, the respectful exchange of ideas, ethical conduct, and the belief that diversity in its many forms is essential to the educational experience. In an environment that supports active, collaborative learning, students work closely with faculty to engage significant bodies of knowledge and develop their ability to gather and evaluate information, communicate effectively, think critically and creatively, reason quantitatively, and apply information and emerging technologies.

At Framingham State University teaching is the primary role of faculty, who engage in their disciplines through instruction, scholarship, and service on campus and in their professional communities. The University serves as an important educational and cultural center in the MetroWest region of Massachusetts.

A Framingham State University education culminates thoughtful, responsible local and global citizens, prepares students for careers, and positions them for success.

Core Values

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE
We strive to inspire a culture informed by the joy and work of learning, in which curiosity, discovery, innovation, and excellence are the driving forces in everything we do.

ETHICAL CITIZENSHIP
We seek to foster a culture of ethics, integrity, and respect, such that it creates the fertile ground that motivates our work and work ethic.

PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL GROWTH
We aspire to create a nurturing culture where all thrive and are supported in their own paths toward lifelong growth and leadership in personal and professional ways.

GLOBAL STEWARDSHIP
We endeavor to advance global understanding, empathy, and stewardship for people and the environment, embracing diversity and a sense of community in both local and global settings.

PUBLIC PURPOSE AND COMMITMENT
We strive to construct a community that is committed to public purpose, informed by action and service.

INCLUSIVE AND COLLABORATIVE COMMUNITY
We seek to encourage a supportive, diverse, collaborative, and cohesive environment in which we learn from each other through informed, clear, and open communication.
Governance and Leadership

Framingham State is led by an 11-member Board of Trustees, which meets five times during the academic year. The governor appoints nine trustees to five-year terms, renewable once. The FSU Alumni Association elects one member to serve as a trustee for a five-year term, renewable once. The student body elects one student trustee for a one-year term.

Reporting to the Board of Trustees, the President is accountable for the effective leadership and administration of the University.

The President plays an active role as a member of the Council of Presidents, which represents the nine state universities in Massachusetts and presents a collective voice to the Board of Higher Education, the Massachusetts Legislature, and the Governor.

The Council of Presidents consults with and advises the BHE during negotiations, and FSU’s president is responsible for enacting management’s obligations under the collective bargaining agreements at FSU.

Direct reports to the President include:

- Executive Vice President, Administration, Finance, and Information Technology
- Provost and Vice President, Academic Affairs
- Vice President, Enrollment and Student Development
- Chief of Staff, General Counsel, and Secretary to the Board of Trustees
- Vice President, Diversity, Inclusion, and Community Engagement
- Vice President, Development and Alumni Relations
- Executive Director, MetroWest College Planning Collaborative
The University’s Honors Program is a point of pride at FSU, having received accreditation by the Commonwealth Honors Programs, which is reserved for the most elite post-secondary institutions in Massachusetts.

In addition, the University is home to a diverse array of centers and institutes, which differentiate Framingham State from its peers. For example:

• The Center for Inclusive Excellence is a brave space dedicated to creating and supporting an environment that reflects a collective commitment to promoting equity, advocating social justice, and making excellence inclusive.

• The Chris Walsh Center for Educators and Families of MetroWest provides information for families and educators about educational support available to students with disabilities, who are gifted, and with unmet needs. The center engages in scholarly research, educator preparation, and professional development.

• The Christa C. McAuliffe Center for Integrated Science Learning serves nearly 12,000 Massachusetts middle school students each year, provides professional development opportunities for teachers across the Commonwealth, and is the site of a state-of-the-art planetarium.

• The Danforth Art Museum and School is a comprehensive museum and cultural destination featuring rotating exhibitions and a large permanent collection focused on American art from the 19th century to the present day.

• The Entrepreneur Innovation Center supports and fosters entrepreneurs’ innovative ideas by providing resources to aid start-up businesses, including internet access, conference room scheduling, and FSU faculty expertise.

• The John C. Stalker Institute of Food and Nutrition serves as a resource for nutrition professionals throughout the state and plays a critical role in integrating nutrition education and wellness standards.

• The Mancuso Humanities Workforce Preparation Center connects students and their families with humanities faculty and employers, promoting the value of the humanities for creating vibrant thinkers, engaged citizens, and skilled professionals.

• The Warren Conference Center & Inn, which sits on 100 acres of wooded lakefront land, is a resource to Hospitality and Tourism Management majors and home to the new University Community Club, which will provide the FSU community with social, cultural, recreational and educational opportunities.

Other noted Framingham alumni include:

• Olivia Davidson, co-founder of Tuskegee Institute and spouse of Booker T. Washington

• Rebecca Pennell, the first woman college professor in the United States

• Ruth Graves Wakefield, inventor of the chocolate chip cookie

• Richard Wightman ’74, former NATO commander

• Three current sitting college and university presidents, among countless current and former educators, researchers, health care leaders, corporate leaders, and business owners.
FSU and the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education

Framingham State University is part of the state university system, which is part of the Massachusetts Public Higher Education System. The system includes 15 community colleges, nine state universities, and the University of Massachusetts system of five campuses. A statewide Board of Higher Education (BHE) has broad oversight responsibility for all of public higher education and a particular responsibility for the community colleges and state universities (M.G.L. c. 15A § 9).

The mission of the Board of Higher Education is to ensure that Massachusetts residents have the opportunity to benefit from a higher education that enriches their lives and advances their contributions to the civic life, economic development, and social progress of the Commonwealth. To that end, the programs and services of Massachusetts higher education must meet standards of quality commensurate with the benefits it promises and must be truly accessible to the people of the Commonwealth in all their diversity.

The Department of Higher Education (DHE), headed by Commissioner Carlos Santiago, is the executive arm of the BHE. The Board has a seat in the search and selection of college presidents, approves recommended presidential appointments, and sets the compensation of presidents. Presidential performance is also evaluated annually by trustees through a process that is executed under BHE policy and includes Commissioner involvement.

During the September 2018 BHE retreat, Commissioner Santiago and Chairman Chris Gabrieli proposed to members a new direction for public higher education that called for BHE and DHE, in partnership with Massachusetts public higher education institutions, to develop a statewide strategic plan focused on equity. This work was codified in a December 2018 vote of the BHE, in which the BHE recognized equity as the top statewide policy and performance priority for the public higher education system.

The expectation of The Equity Agenda is that, by focusing on equity in its policies, programs, and initiatives, the Massachusetts system of public higher education will enhance economic and social mobility for all citizens, but particularly for those who have historically been underserved and underrepresented, especially students of color, throughout all levels of education.
The Presidential Search Committee is committed to a transparent and collaborative search process that relies on input from across the Framingham State community. The Search Committee includes representatives from the Board of Trustees and the FSU administration, faculty, students, and alumni.

The Search Committee will preliminarily screen all applicants and recommend three to five finalists for further vetting by the FSU Board of Trustees and the Massachusetts Department of Higher Education.

Finalists will be asked to participate in open campus meetings.

Final appointments are subject to approval by the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education. Interested candidates should review the BHE’s Guidelines and Procedures for the Search, Selection, Appointment and Removal of State University and Community College Presidents.

Framingham State University fully respects the need for confidentiality and assures interested parties that their background and interests will not be discussed without consent of the applicant prior to their becoming a candidate.
Procedure for Candidacy

All applications, nominations and inquiries are invited.

WittKieffer is assisting Framingham State University with this search. Applicants should provide a letter of interest and curriculum vitae using WittKieffer’s candidate portal.

The Search Committee will begin reviewing candidate credentials in October. Candidates will be considered until an appointment is made.

Confidential nominations and inquiries can be directed to Lucy Leske, Philip Tang and Sandra Chu at FraminghamPresident@wittkieffer.com.

Framingham State University is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer. Members of underrepresented groups and those committed to working in a diverse cultural environment are encouraged to apply.
