Name of Professor or Advisor

Digital Commons at Framingham State University is the institutional repository for Framingham State University. The repository is a permanent archive for digital content produced by Framingham State faculty, students, and staff. By placing your project in Digital Commons at Framingham State University, you acknowledge that you are aware that all of the materials will be searchable by search engines. Your copyright protects your work against unauthorized use. Please review the following statements and identify that you have read them by signing them below. Some of the departments may choose to protect the work of their students because of continuing research. In these cases, the project is posted in the repository, but the content will be accessible only by individuals who are part of the Framingham State community.

Choose the statement below that defines how you want to share your project

I agree to make my project(s) available to Framingham State University and to the larger scholarly community upon its deposit in our permanent digital archive, Digital Commons at Framingham State University, or its successor technology.

OR

I do not want my student project(s) available to the larger scholarly community upon deposit in Digital Commons at Framingham State University. I want my project(s) available only to the Framingham State community, permanently or until (specify date) when it may be made available to the larger scholarly community.

Please read the document carefully before signing it. If you have any questions about any of these permissions, please contact Millie Gonzalez at vgonzalez@framingham.edu.

Notice of Original Work and Use of Copyright Protected Materials

If your work includes images that are not original works by you, you must include permissions from original content provider or the images will not be included in the repository. If you work includes videos, music, data sets, or other accompanying material that is not original work by you, the same copyright stipulations apply. If your work includes interviews, you must include a statement that you have the permission from the interviewees to make their interviews public. For information about obtaining permissions and sample forms, see <http://copyright.columbia.edu/copyright/permissions/>.

Notice of approval to use human subjects by the Framingham State University Institutional Research Board (IRB)

If your research includes human subjects, you must include a letter of approval from the IRB. For more information, see <http://www.framingham.edu/academic-affairs/institutional-review-board/>.

Notice of submitted work as potentially constituting an educational record under FERPA

Under FERPA (20 U.S.C. § 1232g), this work may constitute an educational record. By signing below, you acknowledge this fact and expressly consent to the use of the work according to the terms of this agreement.

By signing this form, I acknowledge that all work contained in this submission is original work by me or includes appropriate citations and/or permissions when citing or including excerpts of work(s) by others.

If applicable, I have included an approval letter from the IRB to use human subjects.

I acknowledge that I understand the terms of this agreement and that I freely consent to the use of this work in Digital Commons at Framingham State University.
