May Hara, PhD

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING

Dr. Hara teaches and mentors students in the teacher education programs, guiding them to connect theory and practice and providing both peer and instructor feedback to teacher candidates. Colleagues describe her teaching as “infused with a commitment to social justice.” This commitment is also demonstrated by her major contributions to developing the Sheltered English Immersion (SEI) course, which trains teachers of English language learners in public school classrooms. Framingham State was one of the first state universities in the Commonwealth to implement the SEI course. Students and colleagues recognize Dr. Hara’s care and concern for her students in their professional and personal lives as teachers and scholars.

Ruth Remington, PhD

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN SCHOLARSHIP OR CREATIVE WORK

Dr. Remington’s research focuses on non-pharmacological interventions to manage the symptoms of dementia. Dr. Remington and her colleagues have performed studies demonstrating that a healthy lifestyle that includes nutrition, exercise and social activity can help people maintain their brainpower as they age. Since coming to Framingham State in 2012, Dr. Remington’s impressive record of research includes twenty-one publications, which she adds to eighteen earlier publications. Dr. Remington draws on her own scholarship to teach her undergraduate and graduate students how to publish their work. Her Introduction to Nursing Research course received the Massachusetts Colleges Online (MCO) Course of Distinction Award in the blended learning category.

Brian Bishop, MFA

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN PROFESSIONAL SERVICE

Professor Bishop reinvigorated the University’s Painting Program by remodeling the curriculum and spearheading efforts to transform the studio into a more welcoming and functional space. With Professor Barbara Milot, he revised the Master of Art Education curriculum, and these changes have helped to double enrollment over the past five years. Professor Bishop was essential in gaining national accreditation for the Art and Design Programs through the National Association of Schools of Art and Design. He coordinated a three-year comprehensive departmental self-evaluation, compiled a Higher Education Arts Data Services report, and facilitated the site visit by the NASAD review team. He has also been an invaluable voice on the University’s Arts & Ideas Committee.

Barbara Milot, MFA

AWARD FOR EXCELLENCE IN ADVISING/MENTORING

Professor Milot has mentored hundreds of students who have gone on to successful careers as teachers. She regularly teaches Field Study II and Student Practicum, where she provides critique and commentary on the in-classroom performance of students at area schools. Professor Milot coaches her students on everything from curriculum and lesson-plan development to the advocacy of art in the bureaucracy of primary and secondary institutions. She helps her students navigate the complexities of state licensure requirements and has established a network of schools and teachers who provide students with a supportive setting. Professor Milot is known for her tactful, reassuring, and inspiring mentorship.
