~ MARK YOUR CALENDAR! ~

BROWN BAG LUNCH
Friday, March 29th, 11:30-1:00
Getting Comfortable with Discomfort: Interdisciplinary discussion on anti-racist curriculum

CEL TSS ANNUAL STUDENT CONFERENCE FOR RESEARCH AND CREATIVE PRACTICE
Thursday, May 9th, 12:00-6:00 and Friday, May 10th, 10:00-3:00
Students from across the disciplines present their research and creative projects.

A DAY IN MAY
Tuesday, May 21st, 8:00-3:30
Faculty who received CELTSS funding share their scholarly and creative work.

ALL ABOUT PERSONNEL ACTIONS WORKSHOP
Tuesday, May 21st, 3:30-4:30
An opportunity for faculty coming up for personnel actions in 2019-20 to ask questions about the contract process and view sample personnel binders.

WRITING RETREAT
Tuesday, June 11th – Friday, June 14th
Designed to support projects that are sufficiently developed to benefit from three days of intensive writing, with the opportunity to work with writing coaches.
Cedar Hill Retreat Center, Duxbury, MA

SPRING 2019 LYCEUM LECTURE
Is Your Piggy Bank Too Big?
International Reserve Accumulation in Latin America
Dr. Luis Rosero

THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 2019
MCCARTHY CENTER, ALUMNI ROOM
5 – 7 P.M.
Like most emerging economies, those in Latin America have accumulated large sums of international reserves over the last few decades. These reserves are typically seen in the literature as serving a precautionary motive - a liquidity buffer against unforeseen changes in the international trade and financial flows to the country. These resources, however, do not come cheap. In this lecture, Dr. Rosero will summarize some of his recent research findings on the effectiveness of international reserve accumulation as a method for promoting macroeconomic stability, as well as potential implications for regional integration in Latin America.