

ProgRAMmers contest at CCSC

Zhenguang Gao , Tyler Clachar, Dhruvit Patel Kiernan Roche

Computer science Department, Framingham State University

The 35th Annual CCSC Eastern Conference was held at Robert Morris University (RMU) in Moon Township, PA in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area.

Zhenguang Gao (faculty advisor), Tyler Clachar (student), Dhruvit Patel (student), and Kiernan Roche (student) formed a team and participated the programming contest. This conference/competition was an amazing journey for both students and the advisor.

The CCSC Eastern Regional Conference is designed to promote the exchange of information among educators at all levels of the computing sciences, including 4-year and 2-year colleges as well as sessions of interest to K-12 educators. The conference spans all computing disciplines, including computer science, computational science, information systems, information technology, and beyond, and provides an affordable regional forum for the exchange of ideas and information concerning computing and computing curricula in smaller academic institutions. The CCSC-Eastern Collegiate Programming Contest is a competition for undergraduate student programming teams. Each team consists of two or three members. In the past 19 years, I have served as faculty advisor for our Framingham State University team for the CCSC competitions. Our teams give a great opportunity for our students. As faculty advisor, I also receive the benefit of attending workshops and presentations.
