

Department of Nutrition and Health Studies Annual Awards

The Department of Nutrition and Health Studies has several awards to be given on a competitive basis. Awards come with monetary gifts ranging from $150 to $1000. One general application is required for consideration of any available award. Applications are due by the first Monday in April. Awardees will be notified by May 1. Below is a list of available awards.

Award	Description
Outstanding Food and Nutrition Senior	A graduating senior in Food and Nutrition; top ranking student with overall grade point average of 3.0 or better; exhibits scholarship, leadership and, professional commitment; promotes awareness of nutrition on campus and the community.
Outstanding Health and Wellness Senior	A graduating senior in Health and Wellness; top ranking student with overall grade point average of 3.0 or better; exhibits scholarship, leadership and, professional commitment; promotes awareness of health, wellness and/or nutrition on campus and the community.
Louisa A. Nicholass Scholarship	This scholarship is given to a Nutrition and Health Studies student with a minimum QPA of 3.0. Must have been enrolled for at least one year before award is given.
Marion L. Cronan Memorial Award	To be granted to an undergraduate or graduate Nutrition and Health Studies student, with at least one full semester left to complete their program at Framingham State University, who has demonstrated ability and a passion for the field of nutrition or health.
Dr. Marilyn Abernethy Award	Given to a junior or senior in the DPD or CPD who has a minimum grade point average of 2.75 who shows leadership potential in the field of Food and Nutrition.